

PATRICIA L. STONE

Vice President, Supplier Management Global Supply Chain
Northrop Grumman Aerospace Systems

Patricia (Patti) Stone is the vice president of Supplier Management at Northrop Grumman Aerospace Systems, a premier provider of military aircraft, autonomous and space systems and next-generation solutions to assist our customers worldwide, preserve freedom and advance human discovery.

Patti leads the team responsible for the day-to-day activities associated with subcontracted initiatives from initial pursuit identification to supplier selection, to contracting and product delivery. She is responsible for subcontract management/performance, strategic initiatives/relationships, leveraged supplier capabilities and source selection decisions in support of program objectives.

Patti has more than 30 years of leadership and expertise in global supply chain management. She has held positions of increasing responsibility in price/cost analysis, engineering, contracts and pricing, and subcontracts management. Most recently, Patti was the director of Subcontract Programs at Northrop Grumman Aerospace Systems. Prior leadership roles at Northrop Grumman include director of Subcontracts Performance and Execution, and director of Strategic Supplier Development. Patti also held the role of director of Subcontracts at Boeing Satellite Systems.

Patti earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from California State University Fullerton and a Master of Business Administration from Pepperdine University.

Northrop Grumman is a leading global security company providing innovative systems, products and solutions in autonomous systems, cyber, C4ISR, strike, and logistics and modernization to government and commercial customers worldwide. Please visit www.northropgrumman.com for more information.

January 2017

